TEXAS!

When you-all come to Texas—open wide youah eyes 'cause it's BIG. Biggest, healthiest, prettiest hunk of land around ... and the wildest, driest, wettest, hottest, coldest, bragginest state in the Union. Two of its cities are farther apart than New York and Chicago. One traveler says:

*"The sun has riz, the sun has set
But here we is in Texas yet!"*

You'll find a welcome second to none in Texas . . . and so much to see. Houston—one of the fastest growing cities in the U. S.—Dallas, the sophisticated and Fort Worth, its boisterous rival—El Paso and Brownsville where you can look right into Old Mexico, and San Antonio and the Alamo. You'll really enjoy Texas.

Look to Briggs-Weaver Machinery Co. as the industrial distributor of supplies, machinery and equipment to this great state with offices and warehouses in Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth.

Briggs-Weaver represents the best of the nation's manufacturers to serve Texas' growing industry . . .

"It Must Be Springtime"

SPRING PROM

Casual Chat

"Spring Cruise" was the theme of this year's Prom. Entering Phraner Gymnasium by a gangplank, the girls and their dates found themselves on the deck of an ocean liner complete with ship's rail, navigator's bridge, and realistic seascape backdrops. Music was once again provided by the Princetonians. A good cross-section of academies and colleges from the northeast was represented by dates hailing from Princeton, Dartmouth, Harvard, Williams, Andover, Lawrenceville, Pungy, and many other schools.

Prom Chairman was Susan Armstrong. She was assisted by Kate Burke, in charge of blind dates; Mary Nettleton and Mary Anne Winterer, decorations; Diana Pope, invitations; and Marilyn Rippie, refreshments.

BOOTS AND SADDLES

PAT HEWLETT

The members of Boots and Saddles this year elected for their president, Pat Hewlett; for vice-president, Ginny Teller; and for secretary-treasurer, Carolyn White. Jean Webb, who was forced to leave school this year because of illness, was named honorary president because of her very active participation in the club in the past. Miss Josephine Emerson was the club adviser.

Many of the club's members ride in the various shows nearby. In February the club sponsored the Limited Working Hunter class at the third show of the Northern New Jersey Horse Show Association at the West Orange Armory. This year for the first time the club has subscribed to and enjoyed "The Chronicle." The main project of the club, the annual Kent Place Horse and Dog Show, was held in the spring at the Watchung Stables.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

This year the International Relations Club under the guidance of Mrs. Jane Hady had as its senior officers: Mary Ranson, president, and Diana Pope, treasurer. Its junior officers for the first term were Margaret Clark, vice-president; and Mary Ann Tustin, secretary. For the second term they were Connie Moench, vice-president, and Sidney Welsh, secretary. Its main projects in the fall were sponsoring the movie "The Ivory Hunter" for the benefit of the World Student Service Fund and a drive for clothes for Korea. During the year representatives went to several conferences: the World Student Service Fund conference; the conference on Education for Public Service; the Buck Hill Falls Religious Conference; and the Herald Tribune Forum. They also made several trips to the United Nations buildings.

MASKERS

Throughout the year the club met every other Tuesday at 75 Norwood, and various members gave short skits and pantomimes. The club was divided into two groups, one for acting and one for production.

In choosing the spring play, the club appointed layreading committees to report on several different plays; The Rivals by Sheridan was finally selected. Leading the cast were Pat Macdonald, Ann Moser, Pat Hewlett, Sally Cooke, Ann Dunham, Susan Armstrong, Mary Anne Winterer, and Carolyn Seager.

Last row: Barbara Stirone, Jane Dunn, Patricia Hewlett, Kerry Boland, Ann Dunham, Louise McCarthy, Susan Armstrong, Mary Hal, Judith Applegate, Cornelia Cree, Karen Miesem, Ida Ruth Kaplon.

This year Maskers was led by Pat Macdonald, president; Barbara Davison and Ginny Teller, vice-presidents; Nancy Voorduin and Eddy Starr, secretaries; and Judy Kerr and Barbara Brettell, treasurers. Miss Hope Corken was the faculty adviser.

The first presentation of the club was Thornton Wilder's Happy Journey. The play was directed by Pat Macdonald, and given at the Middle School Fair in December. The cast included Cornelia Cree, Sharon Vogel, Eddy Starr, and Barbara Davison.

CLUB

The club gave a spring concert here in April with Lawrenceville Glee Club. Both organizations offered selections, and two songs were sung together. Members of our Triple Trio, Cornelia Cree, Patricia Macdonald, Betsy Shaffer — first sopranos, Nadja Burns, Ann Dunham, and Louise McCarthy — second sopranos, and Susan Armstrong, Kate Burke, and Barbara Davison — altos, sang a collection of songs.

The officers of Glee Club were: Ann Dunham, president; Cornelia Cree, secretary-treasurer; and Justine Hoffman and Martha Ackerman, vice-presidents. The club had an especially busy schedule this year. At Christmas time the Glee Club members, along with the rest of the Upper School chorus, participated in the traditional star. The soloists were Cornelia Cree, Justine Hoffman, Betsy Shaffer, Nadja Burns and Pat Macdonald. Miss Ellen Richter directed and Mrs. Ralph Plumley and Mrs. Abigail Fancher accompanied on the piano and organ respectively.

CHRISTMAS STAR

The Christmas Star, in which the whole school participates, is one of the most beautiful Kent Place traditions. Each girl, carrying a lighted candle into the darkened gym, joins the others to form a huge star. After the program of carols, the Bethlehem story as told in St. Luke is narrated from the stage by the two Christmas angels; this year they were Kate Burke and Mary Ranson. Between the narrators is a tableau of the manger scene and the Glee Club in choir vestments sings its part of the program kneeling in front of the stage.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The officers of Student Government this year were Kate Burke, president; Sally Cooke, secretary; Ann Moser and Caroline Seager, vice-president; and Sidney Welsh and Ellen Smith, assistant secretaries. Miss Elizabeth Wilcox and Miss Dorothy Sampson, representing the faculty, gave a great deal of time to the council.

During 1952-1953 the council has made an effort to evoke real interest from the student body and to urge the girls to participate in Student Government meetings. It has also attempted to execute as many constructive suggestions of the students as possible. The council this year has been working under the constitution which was revised last year. The president and vice-president of the dormitory are new members of the council.

The system of having assemblies conducted by the students has been revived and extended to include two assemblies a week. The leaders have been junior and senior council members, and students have played for hymn singing.

The officers of Art Club this year were: Ellen Jane Stiles, president; Gretel Lichtenstein, vice-president; and Carol Skellett, secretary-treasurer.

One of the projects of Art Club this year was supplying posters for the different school activities. Among the most prominent of these were the Student Council's cleanup campaigns. For the first time Art Club has had a pin of its own. It also sponsored the art contest held in the spring.

The Junior Dramatic Club for members of the sophomore class has been very active this year. With the help of Mrs. Paul Tilson at their weekly meetings, they have gained experience both in acting and production. Backstage they have made the scenery, learned to apply stage makeup, and planned the costuming for their two plays.

The officers of the club were: Gay Hart, president; Muffie Mountain, vice-president; Sara Lippincott, secretary-treasurer; and Barbara Hilyard, head of production.

The staff of the Middle School Log was headed this year by Lucy Gale, with the assistance of Sally Mathiason and Carol Riddell.

The magazine, which came out three times during the year, consisted of news articles, poems, essays, and book or play reviews contributed by members of the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. It was printed by the girls themselves; and the staff was under the guidance of Miss Elizabeth Cowap.

Muffy French was editor of this year's Windward, the literary magazine, which appeared for the first time last year. This year the magazine came out in May, and contained the prize short stories, essays, and poems submitted to the contest held in February and March. The staff consisted of two girls from each class in the upper school, and Miss Florence Wolfe and Mrs. Hugh Kelley were the faculty advisers.

Not in picture: Julie Abrams.

This year's Ballast staff was headed by Helen Muller, editor-in-chief, Sidney Welsh, associate editor, and Ann Moser, business manager. Mrs. Hugh Kelley was the faculty adviser.

The newspaper sent a large delegation to the Twenty-Ninth Annual Conference of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association held in New York the week-end of March 22. Helen Muller, Ann Moser, Ellen Smith, and Connie Moench also represented Ballast at a local conference sponsored by the Newspaper Guild of Elizabeth and held last November in Cranford.

Ballast has received a first place rating in the last three years in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Contest and is a member of Quill and Scroll, the international honorary society for high-school journalists.

Work was begun on Cargoes almost immediately after school opened in the fall. The staff, consisting entirely of seniors, was appointed in October, and held their first meeting soon after. Jane Dunn was named editor-in-chief; Louise McCarthy, business manager; and Ann Boyer, assistant editor. Miss Florence Wolfe and Mrs. Hugh Kelley were the faculty advisers.

In October three of the staff attended the annual Columbia Yearbook Conference in New York. There they examined the yearbooks of other schools and heard authorities speak on various phases of yearbook publication. Immediately afterwards work was begun on the layout of this year's book.

Cargoes was distributed to the seniors on the Monday before Graduation and to the rest of the school on Class Day.

ACTIVITIES

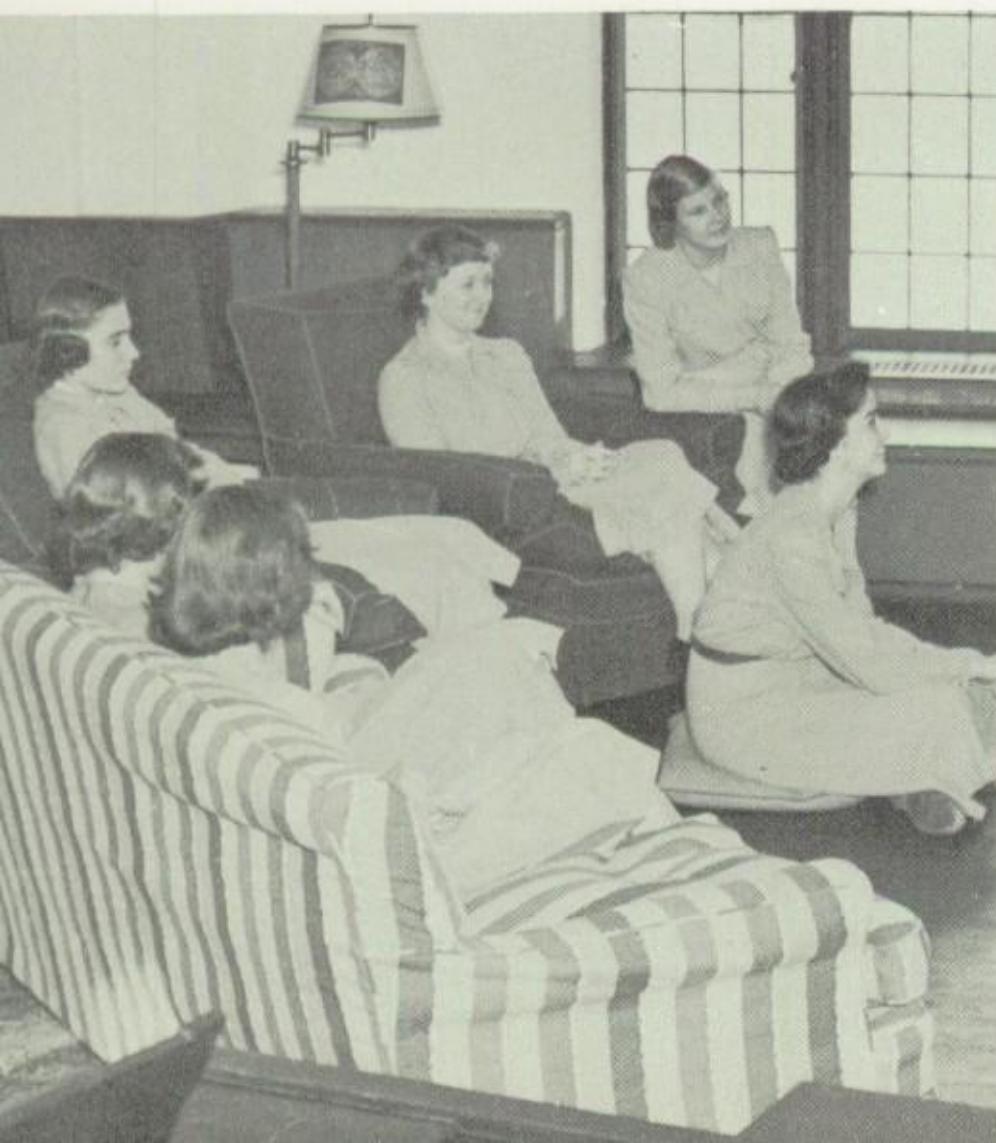

DORM

Dorm Administration

Another innovation this year was the system of dorm government. Each class now elects its own representatives three times a year, and the entire boarding department votes on the junior and senior officers. This year the council was headed by Jane Gravany as president, with Jane Dunn as secretary and Betsy Shaffer as treasurer. The junior vice-presidents were Gretal Lichtenstein and Mary Ann Tustin.

THE

Dorm Officers

The boarders this year returned in the fall to find a newly decorated dormitory; both the first floor rooms—the Commons Room, the Barbara Powell Library, the Drawing Room and the Foyer—and the second floor bedrooms were newly painted, papered, and arranged. One of the most appreciated additions was the television set installed in the Commons Room.

JANE DUNHAM

CLASS OF 1956

The freshmen officers this year were—for the first term: Jane Dunham, president; Sue Baetzner, vice-president; Ida Kaplon, secretary; Anita Cox, treasurer; Amanda Pope, council member; Debby Plumley, appointed council member; and for the spring term: Ann Posey, president; Stephanie Van Rensselaer, vice-president; Vicky Cox, secretary; Ruth Graessle, treasurer; Connie Koven, council member; Barbara Wenzel, appointed council member. Their faculty advisers have been Miss Hope Corken and Mrs. Jane Hady.

The new freshmen were welcomed with a picnic given by their sister class the juniors at the opening of school. The freshmen participated in the Middle School Fair in December by running the tearoom in Mabie House. They also participated in the Boots and Saddles Club. Their annual tea dance was held in March the weekend before spring vacation.

JUNE MINDER

CLASS OF 1955

The officers of the sophomore class for the fall term were: June Minder, president; Judith Hover, vice-president; Mallory Hicks, secretary; Betty King, treasurer; Betsy Palmer, council member; Robin Miesem, appointed council member. For the spring term the officers were: Mary Tracy, president; Sue Cleary, vice-president; Helen McCoy, secretary; Martha Van Horn, treasurer; Sara Lippincott, council member; Andrea Van Nostrand, appointed council member. Miss Virginia Fox and Miss Erva Hanschke were their faculty advisers.

The sophomore class participated in the Boots and Saddles Club and the International Relations Club, and formed an active Junior Dramatic Club with the help of Mrs. Paul Tilson. They gave their annual class party in the spring and won first prize for the best skit at the junior party in October.

Dear Gail, school CLASS OF 1954

Serving as the junior class officers for the first term were: Caroline Seager, president; Ellen Smith, vice-president; Susan Bohmer, council member; Alice Wilson, secretary; and Judy Applegate, treasurer. For the second term the officers were: Susan Bohmer, president; Cho Leston, vice-president; Ida Ruth Kaplon, council member; Beverly Mallard, secretary; and Karen Miesem, treasurer.

There are many traditions at Kent Place which involve the juniors. One of these is to give a party to which the entire school is invited. This year the event took place over Hallowe'en and as a special feature the juniors asked the faculty and each class in the Upper School to give an appropriate skit.

Other traditions which are cherished by the juniors are the privilege of carrying the daisy chain at graduation and attending the Junior-Senior Banquet in May.

Ballast, the school newspaper, and Windward, the literary magazine, are essentially junior projects, and the editors of both are juniors.

UNDERCLASSES

CLASS SONG

Tune — "Somewhere Over the Rainbow"
Someday, when we have left you,
We'll recall
Years we've spent here together,
Treasured by one and all.

Kent Place, our Alma Mater,
You will be
Ever guiding our paths
To honor and loyalty.

In all we do in future days
Your leadership and merit stay
Forever.
The ideals that will be our guide
Are those that we will never hide,
Oh never, never.

As we leave you, Kent Place,
Our whole lives through
Efforts made in your honor
We dedicate to you.

DEDICATION

We, the Class of 1953, dedicate this, our yearbook, to Miss Dorothy Sampson, in recognition of her twenty-sixth year at Kent Place, and in hopes that she will continue to be one of the factors that makes the senior year at Kent Place such a wonderful experience.

FOREWORD

For everyone the yearbook is the incorporation of the events and traditions of the school year; it is the embodiment of the work and endeavor which are put into all the activities and studies; it is the embodiment too of the friendships and associations which are so much a part of our school life and from which, when we look back in future years, we will derive our greatest pleasure.

For the seniors it holds the added meaning of being the last record of the class together, the final assemblage before we separate and go our different ways to college and the future.

Dear Gail

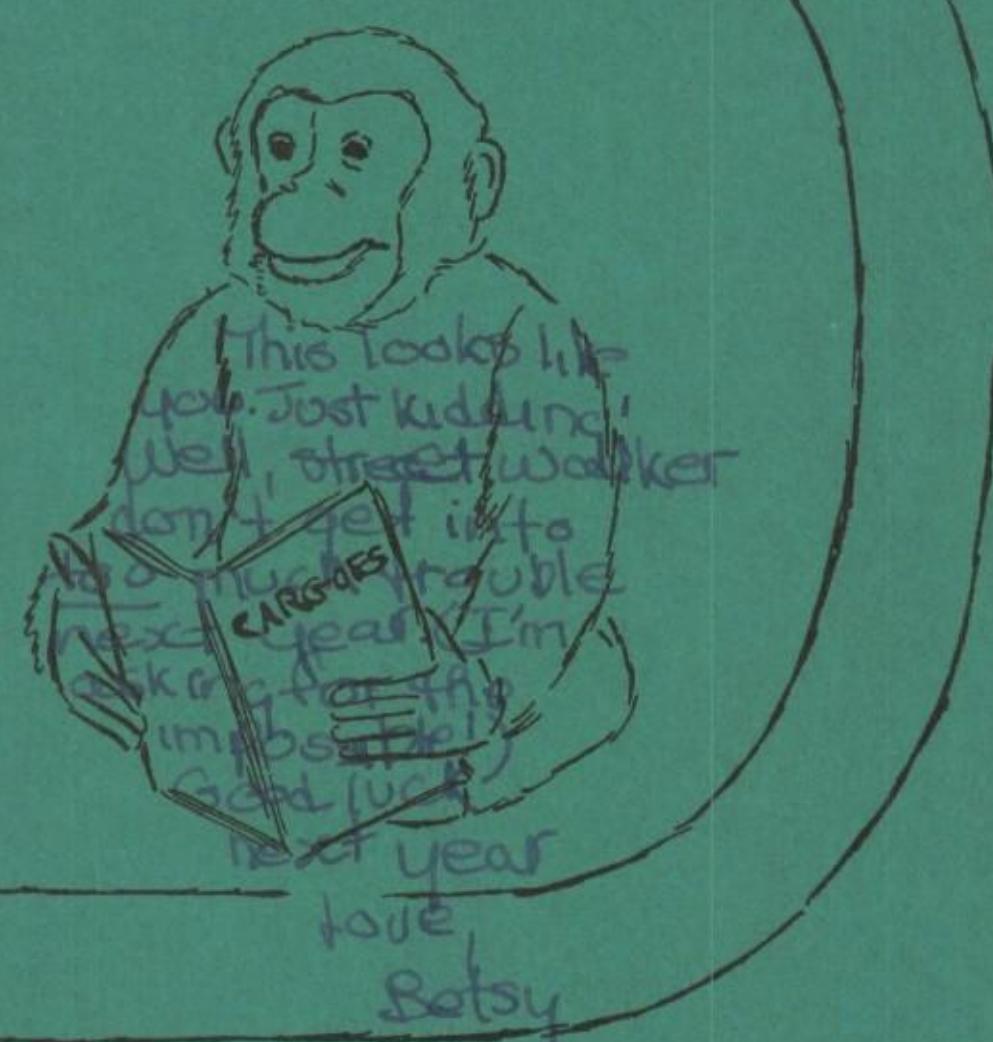

We're all going
+ miss you terribly next year. I wish you were coming back sure hope you like it to Deere Old K. P. (Hatta) Oh well. and lots of luck to you. This sun is typical of me. Now let's keep up with your sports start again.
